“On the Road Again”

Program

This one-day session presented by the Wisconsin State Laboratory of Hygiene (WSLH) will provide information about interactions of the Wisconsin Clinical Laboratory Network with public health, including surveillance, response to outbreaks, terrorism, and other public health emergencies. In addition, a group session to create individual, laboratory-specific emergency response plans will be conducted.

Target Audience

This meeting is intended for laboratory managers, supervisors and bench technologists in community-based clinical laboratories; infection control practitioners; and emergency department staff.

We also encourage attendance by staff of Local Public Health Departments, Local Public Health Department laboratories, and Public Health Consortia members to enhance communications among the laboratory, health care and public health communities.
