Program

This one-day meeting presented by the Wisconsin State Laboratory of Hygiene (WSLH) offers clinical and public health laboratorians, infection preventionists and local health officers the chance to strengthen their relationships through networking and discussions of relevant laboratory issues.

This year's meeting is a continuation of our 3 year plan focused on improving laboratory biosafety and biosecurity in WI. As we discuss some of our current public health threats, we will explore how risk assessment has played a part in our response. We will also try to discern how successful we have been in applying the lessons learned from Ebola planning and risk assessment to emerging threats such as Zika virus. Other topics of discussion will be the Elizabethkingia outbreak in WI, case studies, mrc-1 surveillance, and a review of common packaging and shipping problems.

We have structured the day so that our guests from Infection Prevention and Local Public Health may choose to leave after lunch when the presentations will be more focused on laboratory issues.

Target Audience

This meeting is intended for all laboratory scientists. We especially want to encourage laboratory management to attend along with bench techs as we work to improve the Culture of Biosafety and Biosecurity in our WI laboratories.

We also invite Infection Prevention and Local Public Health to join the laboratory for the morning presentations and for lunch to enhance communications among the laboratory, health care and public health communities.
